

'A great school library is an accessible space where, regardless of background, young people's abilities can be developed. It's more than just a space: it provides the social experience of reading – and through trained school librarians – people to inspire, challenge and encourage. Creating chances to access books is an important part of creating a curriculum and learning opportunities which allow children to flourish and build independence.'

Sue Riley nace
National Association for Able Children in Education

Great
School
Libraries

